CHURCH DECLINES SENATE BID; SEEKS 3RD TERM IN HOUSE

Congressman Appreciates Efforts of Friends in His Behalf

Congressman Ralph Church of Evanston has declined the honor of becoming a candidate for the United States Senate and is having his petitions circulated for re-election to the house of representatives, according to a letter to the Antioch News this week.

Cong. Church expressed his determination not to miss a single day's session of the present congress in order to discharge his duties and responsibilities to the people of his district.

"Won't Let the People Down"

It may be that Congressman Church has caught the F. D. R. spirit and is determined "not to let the people down" by giving up his present job at this time.

The petitions for Church for the senate were sent out by H. L. Williamson, president of the Illinois Press Association, and not by the associates of the congressman who knew of his plans to seek re-election to the house of representatives.

Congressman Church's letter to the Antioch News follows:

"My attention has been called to the fact that some of my enthusiastic friends in different parts of the State have again initiated a movement to have me run for the United States Senate. While I naturally appreciate such expressions of confidence, I wish to make it clear to the people of the 10th District, whom I am privileged to represent in the House of Representatives, that I am a candidate for re-election to my present seat in Congress. For that purpose I have accordingly sent by nomination petitions for Congress to the 10th District citizens for signature.

"I make this statement in order to remove any confusion which the enthusiasm of my good friends may cause in trying to prevail upon me to run for the Senate.

"To discharge properly my responsibilities and duties to the 10th District, I am determined not to miss a single day's session. A personal primary campaign thus being precluded and entirely out of the question, I confidently rely on the efforts of my friends and believe my record will speak for itself."

SEQUOITS WIN ONE-POINT VICTORY OVER LIBERTYVILLE

Students Are Jubilant Over Victory from Old Rivals

Opening a drive in the last few minutes of play that bewildered the visiting high school basketball squad from Libertyville, the Antioch Sequoits won a thrilling one-point victory over their old rivals here Friday night. The final whistle found the locals on the long end of a 29 to 28 score.

Antioch, leading at the half, 15 to 14, were then forced to abandon their narrow lead in the third quarter, and the game went into the final quarter with Libertyville leading 28 to 27. Then it happened. With only 30 seconds left to play, Effinger, with the assistance of his team mates speeding the ball into scoring territory, sank the winning marker.

The whirlwind victory put local fans in jubilant mood and a victory parade was staged over the streets of the town, with auto horns blowing and much noise and merriment.

Victory also went to the local fightweights, 22 to 15, with Brogan, Burke and Harvey leading the attack for the junior Sequoits.

Chicken Thieves Take Mayor's Flock

Fifteen chickens and four ducks were included in the haul made by sneak thieves at the home of Mayor George B. Bartlett at 1084 S. Main street, Friday night. The vandals made a clean sweep of the henhouse, taking the entire flock. Five of the chickens were prize stock, belonging formerly to John Blackman, Jr., who lives with the Bartletts and attends high school here. Last year young Blackman entered his birds in a show at Barrington, returning with the blue ribbon prize for his pen. The theft was reported to the sheriff's office.

Chicago Lad Acclaimed Best Figure Skater

Harold Boeuchler, of Chicago, was acclaimed the best fancy skater in the contest held last Saturday evening at Haling's resort in connection with the skating party, marshmallow and weiner roast. The skaters exhibited their stuff on a section of Grass Lake which had been especially prepared for the contest.

Haling's announce that another such party will be held this Saturday night, if weather permits.

W. C. PETTY UP FOR RE-ELECTION AS HEAD OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Antioch Man Will File a Petition for G. O. P. Nomination

County Superintendent of Schools W. C. Petty will be a candidate for re-election to the office he has held for two terms, he announced to friends throughout the county this week. Petitions to place him in the race for the Republican nomination are being circulated.

Superintendent Petty has been a winner since he first entered politics in 1930. In the primary of that year he defeated the veteran T. A. Simpson for the Republican nomination by 2500 votes, and won in November over Mrs. Frances Moody, Democrat, by 15,277 to 6582. Again in 1934, Petty was without opposition for the GOP nomination and won in the fall election over Frank DeYoe, his Democratic opponent, by approximately 21,000 to 15,000. In both elections he was the leading vote-getter for Lake county office.

Petty's greatest asset in his campaigns has been his fine record in office. Since becoming county superintendent of schools he has followed the commendable practice of making improvements where needed so that all Lake county children may be afforded equal opportunity. During his tenure in office, Supt. Petty has prepared many schools to qualify as Superior schools and Standard schools, and the number of schools with such ratings far surpasses any other county. Lake county is recognized as having the outstanding rural and elementary school system in this state.

"It's Nice Work-- If You Can Get It"

County Judge Perry L. Persons did a little "experting" on his own account this week when he cut $450 from the claims of two of Assistant Attorney General Noll's "experts," in connection with the re-appraisal of the state of the late Melvin S. Finn of Highland Park.

The two "experts," Karl S. Moras and John Unger, claimed $800 for services and $19.85 expenses and $450 for service and $11.50 expenses respectively in re-appraising the estate of Finn who died last June 16. The net estate of $277,843.56 was left to the widow, Mrs. Grace L. Finn, who was assessed $117,843.56 in state inheritance tax.

Moras was allowed $519.85 including expenses and Unger $311.50.

Rotnour Plays to A Capacity House —Then Slides Home

A capacity house greeted the J. B. Rotnour players here last Thursday night, instead of driving home to Richmond, J. B. says they slid, effecting several complete turn-arounds on the icy pavement, but only one car landed in the ditch.

The play tonight at the Crystal is "Before Breakfast" and next Thursday night, "The Girl in the Case," an unusual play with tense dramatic situations, a touch of mystery and fast comedy. Mary Wellman will appear as the Girl, and with Mr. Reese returning to the cast and Bob Gentry's new vod'vil acts, the play-goers are assured greater entertainment than ever.

LIFT THE FOG!

GERMANS POOR, BUT HAPPY, MACKAY SAYS

Dinner Speaker Says Teutons Respect Uncle Sam

The Germans are a happy, sociable people despite the iron-fisted rule of Chancellor Adolph Hitler and the widespread poverty of the land which has no foreign credit, according to Charles Mackay, of Chicago, who addressed the Men's Civic club at the Antioch Hotel Monday night.

The speaker recently returned from a three months visit to Germany and Italy, where he obtained first-hand information of actual conditions in those countries. Speaking the German language fluently, Mackay conversed with citizens and officials in all walks of life in that country and was able to present a true picture of the nation. German's he said, are patriotic and look to Hitler as the savior of their country. Lacking in many of the essential resources except man-power, Germany perhaps never will be able to wage a successful war against any of the other major powers. The same applies to Italy, the speaker said.

Workingmen in Germany receive about 50 cents per day, Mackay revealed, while 30 cents a day in Italy seems to be the prevailing wage.

Censorship is the rule in both countries, and all news relating to government emanates from Berlin or Rome. The people work, say nothing, and elections are a farce in both countries.

Warns Against Reckless Shooting In Village

A warning against shooting within the village limits was issued today by George B. Bartlett, president of the board of trustees. The order against this reckless practice followed reports of promiscuous shooting occurring here some time Sunday when it was found that a 22 caliber rifle bullet had broken two window panes at the Irving-Elms home at 395 Orchard street. The bullet was found in the living room. Mr. and Mrs. Elms were away at the time of the shooting.

Bud Holtz Buys Home in Antioch

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Holtz have purchased the residence at 582 North Main street in Antioch, formerly owned and occupied by the late C. E. Shultis and wife. Upon the death of Mr. and Mrs. Shultis the property came under the control of Mrs. Ann Shreve, from whom the property was purchased, with Robert C. Abt acting as broker in the deal. Mr. and Mrs. Holtz moved into their new home the first of this week.

Will Start Mink Farm

In a deal consummated Friday, Peter W. Kapp of Chicago acquired the Jannrich three-acre tract on Beach Grove road, which recently came under the control of the Home Owners Loan Corporation. The transaction was made through S. B. Nelson, local property manager for the HOLC. Kapp, who is employed in the service department of a refrigerating company in Chicago, plans to establish a mink ranch on his newly acquired property.

Gaming Machines Banned In County

An anti-gambling crusade hit Lake county with a vengeance over the week-end, resulting in an order issued from Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle for the removal of all slot machines, pinball machines and other gaming devices. The disappearance of the devices from stores, restaurants and taverns throughout the county was an orderly procedure and no raids or arrests of violators were reported.

Sheriff Doolittle said his action is based on a petition of complaint said to have been circulated by Joseph Mull, chairman of the finance committee of the Lake County Democratic Central Committee, and George Mayer, sales tax collector for the Horner administration.

Pinball machines have been operating under a city license in Waukegan, producing a revenue of $4,275 a year for the 171 machines in operation in the county seat city.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS RULING ON TWIN LAKES

Incorporation of the Resort Area Village Now a Certainty

The separation of the village of Twin Lakes from Randall township through the incorporation of the resort area last week became a certainty following a decision of the Wisconsin State Supreme Court which affirmed the previous order by Circuit Judge S. E. Smalley.

All of the territory involved is located in the vicinity of Lake Mary and Lake Elizabeth.

Application for incorporation of the village was made by ten residents in April 1935. The petitioners included A. V. Buschman, Virgil R. Richter, LeRoy Winters, George J. Roepke, William Schwardt, Walter Riemann, William F. Voss, Joseph G. Oberhofer, James E. Carey and Earl F. Ward.

Objections Failed
Objections were filed with the court by Frank Zerfas, Joe A. Pitts, A. E. Stoehr, Louis Hanzl, Rose Staudenmeyer, Julia Zerfas, August Himmelman and Albert Boyer, other residents of the town.

They contended that the boundaries of the proposed village were unnatural, would separate one part of the town of Randall from the other, violate the constitutional requirement for uniform town government and violate the statutes requiring compact and contiguous election districts. They claimed that half of the taxpayers were opposed to the incorporation.

The objectors appealed to the supreme court from Judge Smalley's decision granting the petition.

RAISE SALARIES OF LEGISLATORS AT SPRINGFIELD

The New Salary Grab Will Cost the State $268,000

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15. — The Democratic party, overwhelmingly dominant in both house and senate in the sixtieth or last, General Assembly, must accept full responsibility for increasing the salary of legislators from $3,500 to $5,000 and appropriating $1,110,000 with which to pay the bill. A Democratic Governor gave the stamp of approval to the members' salary grab on July 2, 1937.

Very few people among the voters of Illinois have any conception or understanding of what a legislative session costs them. That the cost of a session is well over a million dollars is beyond their understanding of things. Upwards of one-fourth of the appropriation of $1,110,000 to pay the salary of members of the next general assembly goes to pay the cost of the increase.

The increase alone amounts to $268,500. It will go to each one of the 154 house members who are to be nominated and elected this year and to those senators in odd numbered districts, who also are to be elected this November.

During the session the members salary grab attracted little attention as it slid along through the two houses. The ways had been well greased and it struck no obstacles. That the grab bore the stamp of party approval is best evidenced by reference to the record contained in the house and senate journals.

Introduced as senate bill No. 430 on May 11, 1937, its passage had been completed with neatness and dispatch on June 17, following, when the clerk of the house advised the senate the house had concurred with it in the passage of Senate Bill No. 430.

Five weeks is a record breaker for any bill, even of mediocre importance, to weather the storms that legislation usually encounters in the two branches of the assembly.

After clearing the hurdles in the senate and house the salary grab was safe, except for executive veto. Instead of a veto Governor Horner approved the bill on July 2, 1937, thereby completing the last act of hanging the cost upon the taxpayers, and there it will remain through the years unless some public spirited citizen successfully gets the dual salary question into court.

The senate gave the salary grab 30 affirmative votes, far more than a constitutional majority. The house gave it 96 votes or 19 more than the 77 necessary to passage.

Each of the 51 senatorial districts will elect three house members in November and half the districts, those bearing odd numbers, will elect a state senator at the same time.

The Balance Wheel

Coming at a time when "threats" of more government spending and control of business are being heard from administration headquarters, the return of Congress to the National Capital is a heartening sign.

A year or so ago the convening of Congress, to the refrain of such warnings as those heard in recent weeks, would have instilled fears in the hearts of most of us. But those were the days when the legislative branch of government followed the dictates of the executive branch out of fear of political assassination.

But the legislators know now—and have exhibited this knowledge—that government must not lose its sense of proportion and responsibility, even in an emergency, lest its purpose be defeated by the very unsoundness of its efforts. The defeat of the wage and hour bill and the decision of Congress to take steps toward tax relief for industry are recent testimonials of this new thinking.

It is reassuring then, that in Washington today there is, in place of a rubber stamp, a "balance wheel"—a Congress of able thinkers dictated to only by its dignity, conscience and a sense of proportion.

A Dubious Honor

A man high in the circle of government remarked some few years ago that this country "didn't know what it was to be taxed." Compared with the burden of taxation in other countries, such as England, he observed, ours was ridiculously light.

Perhaps that might have been true then, but current per capita tax figures show how unquestionably that we Americans can—at long last, perhaps—pride ourselves in having lifted the tax paying laurels from our British cousins.

Along about the time when we were being reassured by this man of government position that ours was indeed a lighter burden, the per capita tax rate in the United Kingdom was $92 per year, as compared to our per capita rate of $75 per year. But that was some few years ago. Today the approximately 183,000 separate taxing agencies of government in America drain a yearly average of about $104 from the pockets of every man, woman and child in America.

The crown of thorns is now ours!

A Penny Saved!

It was Benjamin Franklin who once advised taking care of the pennies and said the dollars would take care of themselves. But of course Mr. Franklin wasn't aware then of our current complications in government—red tape, so to speak.

For example, the United States Treasury in Washington recently received checks for one cent each from two small cities, the one cent representing, in each case, the unexpended portion of PWA grants of several thousand dollars. The honesty of these two city governments is laudable, to be sure, but—

If the two pennies had been spent—perhaps, for penny pencils—the taxpayers of these United States would have been saved the several dollars spent by the Treasury to record the transaction.

Jobs for the Jobless

There are many lessons which may be drawn from the just-completed census of unemployment. If the lessons are heeded and future plans made accordingly, then the country will profit; if they aren't then the nation will just have to continue muddling along and let nature take its course.

For instance, the census was made November 16-20. An awful lot of water has gone over the dam since then. Thousands were carried on payrolls at a loss right through Christmas just because employers didn't want to ruin their holiday season. Even the 7,882,914 enumerated by the census were said to represent only 72 per cent of those jobless. So we add a "guesstimate" to the cold figure and come up with 10,870,000 unemployed. It should be perfectly clear that Congress is pretty much legislating in the dark despite the census. It ought to have some machinery to give it accurate and up-to-date figures regularly, especially when things are not on an even keel.

One of the biggest lessons, however, was in the figures showing that out of the 7,882,914 who were jobless, only 2,001,877 were doing WPA, NYA, CCC or other federal emergency relief work despite the outpouring of literally billions of dollars by state and national governments. That proves that the answer isn't the appropriation of additional billions but the expansion of job opportunities in private employment.

In short, you can't put even the present jobless on federal or state payrolls. The answer is to stimulate and build up the confidence of private enterprise so that it may supply the necessary jobs.

Over in Kansas, Carrie Nation and her band of loyal supporters wrecked several saloons with her ax before police stopped them.

And an item of political interest from The News editorials, one which proves that times may change, but party policies, like the well-known river, go on forever. We quote: "The Democratic party will have changed for the better if its leaders do not sneer at the decision of the Supreme Court, provided it should uphold the constitutionality of President McKinley's policy toward our island possessions, as it probably will. They have always done so when the court has decided against their contentions."

No Hour too Late... No Road too Long...

Too often, the regular grind of our daily business causes us to overlook humanity's best friend. It is not until sickness or unexpected accident comes that we reach with a beseeching hand to our doctors. Then, at our bedside we find them . . . giving hope in life's dark hours.

To our doctors, we pay heartfelt tribute, hoping that our humble message may help them a little as they "carry on" with their acts of mercy. This community has an able medical profession. We salute the doctors of Antioch.

Many of the children have observed that several of the migratory birds are returning from their winter home, the southland.

Johnnie Meyer was absent Monday because he had a cold, and we will all be glad when he is back. This is the first day he has missed in three years.

Robert Hodgkins took a hike Sunday with his father for the first class Boy Scout test. He hiked fourteen miles.

Tuesday we had movies and the name was "Harmless Serpents" and "Dangerous Snakes."

Raymond Bartlett is a very good drawer, and he drew some trees that look very much like those we see in books, and we have them on our bulletin board.

The school's basketball team will play Fox Lake Wednesday, Jan. 19, and will also play Gurnee Saturday, Jan. 22. We have had several practice games, and some real games already.

Intermediate Room

Junior Miller was absent Monday because of an ear ache.

Lois Parsons is also ill.

We had a program in honor of Benjamin Franklin's birthday.

We have a new geranium plant for our room.

Vida Haley enjoyed an ice boat ride around Cedar Lake Saturday night.

Single Tax Theory Long

Urged by Henry George

The single tax is a theory of taxation propounded by the late Henry George, whereby all taxes are levied on land values, and other forms of direct and indirect taxation are abolished. A summary of the theory by George follows:

"We assert as our fundamental principle the self-evident truth enunciated in the Declaration of Independence that all men are created equal and are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights. We hold that all men are equally entitled to the use and enjoyment of what God has created and of what is gained by the general growth and improvement of the community of which they are a part.

"Therefore, no one should be permitted to hold natural opportunities without a fair return to all for any special privilege thus accorded to him, and that that value which the growth and improvement of the community attaches to land should be taken for the use of the community; that each is entitled to all that his labor produces; therefore no tax should be levied on the products of labor.

"To carry out these principles we are in favor of raising all public revenues for national, state, county and municipal purposes by a single tax upon land values, irrespective of improvements, and of the abolition of all other forms of direct and indirect taxation."

Colony Founded in 1638

New Sweden, or New Swedeland, was founded in 1638 by colonists from Sweden, in the region between the Dutch colony of New Netherlands and the English colony of Virginia. It included portions of the present Delaware and New Jersey. In 1655 the Dutch took possession of it.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

HOW much do you use your sun porch? In nine homes out of ten the sun porch is all very nice but everybody sits in the living room.

Our idea would be, if we had one of these very useful extra rooms in our home, to make it just that—an extra room where the members of the family could either be alone and get away from it all, or an extra room where the family would love to do things together.

If your living room is Colonial, try placing a linoleum simulating wide-board flooring in the sun room—add gay rag rugs, two comfortable arm chairs and a rocker, a study desk with a small radio for those members of the family who have peculiar tastes in radio fare, and book shelves under the windows. On the tops of the shelves you could place plants or jaunty pieces of pottery. For the windows bright chintz hangings or simple white glass curtains with large snowball fringe.

Or for more formal homes, hobby rooms are interesting—perhaps such a room could include a place for young Tom's stamp collecting, a table with plenty of drawers and a good light. Or turn your sun

JANE'S living room has a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde personality if we ever saw one. Sometimes you go there and it's one thing—the next time it's entirely different. Then in a twinkling it will whisk back to the first way. Which adds a lot of glamor and interest to life we think.

The explanation is simple and makes sense. Jane wanted a feeling of elegance and dignity in her furniture coverings, but the problem was how to do that with a big active family like hers who were hard on furniture at best. She compromised by having slip covers for every day but made the slip cover personality of the room just as distinguished in its way as the more formal coverings. But here are the two incarnations of the room:

The Setting—Pale gray walls and a light gray carpet (one of those indistinct patterns that are so practical and smart). White woodwork and pale yellow draperies over white sheer curtains, white lamps and accessories.

For Dress-Up—The sofa is in a fine hunter's green damask and a pair of fireside chairs are in apple green leather. A satin striped fab-porch into a rather formal little "morning" room, with small, comfortable chairs in floral chintz coverings, small light-wood tables and a very feminine desk where you can do your accounts or plan your menus.

Or perhaps a game room would be most practical here, especially if a play center is not provided for in the cellar or attic. You might use dark blue linoleum on the floor, a bridge table and chairs in blonde wood with a pale green leather top and chair seats. Have the pale green for sheer curtains with dark blue fringe. And add several comfortable chairs, slip covered in pale terra-cotta and a deeper green.

In short, get away from the "porch" idea in your sun room. Regard it as another room with glass walls instead of brick, and watch your family respond!

For Mrs. Sew-And-Sew.

A lady who sews owes herself a few conveniences. And the few conveniences can run into so many items, as the years pass, that she will end up by owing herself a sewing room, too. Alas, however, few homes are large enough to give up a whole room to a lady's hobby, even though that hobby may be a necessary one. And anybody who has struggled to hide her seamstress equipment with the machine pushed here, scraps shoved there and other oddments hidden in a hall closet will tell you that it's a lot of bother.

Guest room into sewing room is a bright idea—or, many times, a good sized closet will substitute for a sewing room. Any home sewer will tell you that the machine is the least of her troubles now that smart cabinet models and handy portables are on the market. It's the pattern and the pins, the thread and the thimbles, the bobbins and the bindings that get in her hair.

If a guest room must double for a sewing place, try using a long table under two windows that can hold books, a pair of lamps and perhaps a bowl of flowers or a pretty growing plant when not in use. Sweep these off when you start to make that new dress, and you have a fine work-space for cutting patterns, pinning in pleats and the like. Keep an ironing board in the guest room closet and be sure there is a handy outlet for the iron. Buy a closet shoe box with many drawers to hold the notions—darning things in one drawer, various colored silk spools in another, swatches and patching pieces in another, scissors, needles and pins and thimbles in another. And these shoe box drawers are usually just the right size for filing away favorite patterns, too.

Always keep a large sheet handy and when you start to work, place it on the floor under the machine—then be as prodigal as you like with falling snips of material, threads and pins. After you've finished, swoop up the sheet, shake it out and a disagreeable clean-up job is avoided.

She Transforms the Room for Everyday or Dress-Up.

ric in greens from light to dark appears on a love seat. Then an odd chair has a pale yellow covering.

For Everyday—A fresh informal cretonne with a large scale flower motif and a clear middle blue ground is used for a slip cover on the sofa. This clear middle blue in a plain fabric slip covers the fireside chairs—here the welting is yellow. The love seat has a yellow and gray striped slip cover and the odd chair repeats the floral motif of the sofa.

You can picture what a transformation those changes make! The slip covers are washable, fast color, sanforized and of good stout weight and weave.

In short that's a recipe of how to preserve your dignity and have a family at the same time.

He Backed Her Up.

Mrs. Howard drew the line the other day, about how to spend an unexpected piece of house money. Her daughter Katherine thought the windfall should go on a new living room rug. Her son Stephen was all for spending it on a very fancy new radio complete with all the latest tricks. But Mrs. Howard had been putting off doing over the main bedroom for twenty years; always deferring to more pressing needs. So Mr. Howard backed her up when she announced that the money was going on their room.

First—the furniture. The old set had been very good in its day—colonial mahogany of the rather massive style. The chest of drawers could be retained and the dresser was smartened up by taking the mirror rack off and hanging the mirror on the wall. The dressing table was all right too, and the glass knobs were nice accents. But the brass bed was definitely out. Its high head and foot boards and general style didn't leave much scope for improvement. So a mahogany poster bed was the first purchase. The next was a chaise longue in a soft blue cover with a small flower design in it. She added also an easy chair in red chintz for Mr. Howard since it was a big room used a lot for sitting around. The walls she had repapered in a soft blue and gray stripe, and painted the woodwork palest gray. For the bedspread she used a white ground cretonne with a riotous and colorful floral bouquet in it over a lower flounce of full starched dotted swiss. At the windows she had dotted swiss glass curtains with draperies of the floral chintz of the spread. For rugs she got some of those new floral hooks, three of them, then added white lamps with red ball fringe around the shades.

A pleasant room it is to live in, with a fresh crisp look to it and character enough to make it seem as right for Mr. Howard as for Mrs. Howard.

Score One for Poland's Prexy

President Ignacy Moscicki of Poland is shown here with the giant lynx he shot during a hunting trip in the Bielowieza state forest. The lynx was the largest ever brought to gun in Poland. Despite his seventy years, President Moscicki is one of the country's most ardent hunting enthusiasts and an excellent shot.

Early Tiles Handmade, Sun Dried, Then Painted

The earliest tiles were made by impressing the soft clay of the half-made tile with a pattern, and when the clay was dry, this impressed design was filled with a white slip. The entire surface was then covered with a powdered lead oxide and given a baking, the lead forming a transparent yellow glaze. Old Spanish tiles were all of an inch thick. These were pressed by hand only, and do not have the hard, close compression of the machine-made tile. In the old process the tiles were sun dried after hand pressing and then painted.

The designs to be found on tiles are almost infinite in variety and include coats-of-arms, frequently found in medieval examples as well as conventional foliage and flowers, many ornaments derived from vegetable forms, animals, badges, shields, texts, mottoes, emblems, prayers, human heads, single flowers and composite pictures.

Transfer-print enameling on tiles was produced in Liverpool as early as 1750. These tiles, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times, were used for lining stoves or walls and were very popular. Theatrical characters were frequently represented on them.

River Water as Medicine

Virtually all Hindu families in India possess a bottle of water from the Ganges river for use in a fatal illness. A sip of this holy water at such a time, it is believed, exempts a dying person from the necessity of returning to this world to live his life again.—Collier's Weekly.

Daily Thought

If you wish to be miserable, think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you; and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch; you will make misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you; you will be as wretched as you choose.—Kingsley.

Early Clearing Houses

Clearing houses seem to have existed in Tokyo as early as 2600 B. C. and in Florence by 800 A. D. They were perfected at Lyons by 1463. By the Eighteenth century their use was widespread in Europe. The first modern clearing houses were at Edinburgh, 1760, and London, 1773. They were then established in Dublin, 1846; New York, 1853; and Paris, 1872.

Beau Brummell's Nerve

Beau Brummell, Britain's leader of fashion, died in 1840, but the world is still chuckling over his escapades and colossal nerve. Asked by a beggar for a penny, he said, "Here's a quarter." Returning from a trip abroad a friend inquired what scenery pleased him most, and ringing for his man, he said, "Pray, tell his lordship what scenery we liked best." But the climax of his impudence was the meeting of the crown prince and heir to the throne, walking with a duke, and saying to the duke, "Who's your fat friend?" at a time when the heir to the throne, his former chum and pal, was angry with him.

Full-Fledged Adult

It is difficult to say exactly when a person is a full-fledged adult. Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, of the Smithsonian Institution, says a man is not full grown at twenty-five, and may not even be at forty. The process of growth continues almost to old age, he says, and may never be complete. The arms, legs and body are known to grow long after manhood and womanhood are considered complete. Women's feet grow more than men's after twenty-five, and a man's chest grows till he is forty or fifty. When old age sets in the chest and trunk shrink and the legs shorten slightly. The nose continues to lengthen throughout life in most people.

Three Goat Islands

A third Goat island in the United States is in Narragansett Bay, R. I., just off the city of Newport. The United States Naval Torpedo station is situated on it. Mas-a-Tierra, the nearest to land of the Juan Fernandez islands off the coast of Chile, was formerly called Goat island. It was on these islands that the experiences of Alexander Selkirk led to the story, "Robinson Crusoe."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Life" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 10.

The Golden Text was, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. . . . In Him was life; and the life was the light of men" (John 1:1, 4).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light" (Psalms 36:7-10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Because life is God, life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I am, the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase" (p. 289-90).

The largest crowd at any regular service this conference year was present last Sunday morning. Discussing, "The Love Evangelism of Jesus," the pastor said, "The world does not need professional love; but love that serves, sacrifices, endures, cares, overlooks, and forgives. The supreme task of Jesus was with life, and His most powerful instrument was love." The subject next Sunday morning will be, "The Work of the Holy Spirit." Next Sunday evening at 7:30 there will be a worship service dedicated to the Masonic Fraternity. Sequit Lodge, Antioch Chapter of the O. E. S., as well as lodges from Millburn, Richmond, and Bristol have been invited. The address will be on "The Measure of a Man." At the close of the service there will be a potluck supper in the church basement. Everyone is expected to bring food of their own choosing and share it with all present. The general public should attend in large numbers. We would like to have an overflow crowd.

Tuesday evening fifty-two Antioch High school students gathered at the church for a social evening. Songs, a play by members of the senior class, and games directed by R. H. VERSATILE PUMPS
HIGHLIGHT FASHION

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Pumps in every imaginable interpretation are conspicuously in the foreground now and will be even more so in the spring showings. There is a new seamless kind that spells comfort itself at the same time that it makes the foot look small because of its glove-like fit.

The open-heel pumps are hailed with delight as they do away with the cut-in discomfort across the instep. Other pumps are sandalized attractively while others are fashioned along d'orsay lines. For the many who love pumps but do not have pump feet there are soft steps styled in fascinating variety.

Tunic Blouses Styled on

Modern Greyhound Lines

With "greyhound" lines, Mainbocher's ideal for daytime, slim tunic blouses are shown with dark suits and handknit sweaters come well down over the hips instead of stopping at the waist. The illusion of the length is achieved on dresses with stitching or beading to give a two-piece effect in front with natural waistline in back, detail accentuates the bustline and gives a long, slim waist, and suit coats are from hip to three-quarter length.

Daytime Furs Have More

Variety Than Ever Before

Daytime furs this season have more variety than ever before, with three-quarters boxy coats for sports, classic dress coats and jackets of every conceivable description.

Short sleeves are outstanding in the Revillon collection. Jackets and coats of three-quarters length are made with elbow-length puffed sleeves, the costumes worn with matching long gloves. A mink daytime jacket has capelike loose sleeves to the elbow.

Barrel Sweater

The barrel sweater is becoming a campus favorite.

Indians Used Whites as Decoys

White persons held captive by the Indians were oftentimes compelled to act as decoys along the Ohio river to draw white boat travelers to the shore. Standing on the bank the decoys would call out for the travelers to come ashore and take them aboard. When the travelers landed, the Indians, lying in ambush, would begin their murderous work. As a result of this, some white persons along the shore were really alone and in need of assistance were passed by the travelers. With women and children aboard, the men would take no chances by coming ashore.

"Spinach" From the Sea

"Spinach" for Hawaiian babies—and adults, too—comes from the sea and is regarded as a delicacy rather than something to be added to the diet. It's not really spinach, but seaweed, or limu, as the natives call it, but it looks like spinach.

MEN AND WOMEN
AGREE ON FOODS

Seems to Be No Real Sex Division on Tastes.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ARE foods that men like so very different from women's favorite foods? Actually, I don't think there is any real sex division when it comes to taste in food.

Perhaps women in general are fonder of sauces and thick salad dressings, but I have yet to find a woman who scorns the steak which many men choose as their favorite dish, or a man who will turn down a pudding with a rich sauce.

Women seem as a rule to like vegetables better than men. Men, however, are apt to be devoted to such vegetables as fried onions and baked potatoes, although I do know men who actually dislike onions. Not long ago just for amusement, I asked a number of men to tell their favorite dishes and this is the list:

Steak
French fried onions
Apple pie
Ham and eggs
Cheese cake
Chocolate cake
Sweet potatoes with marshmallows.

French Fried Onions

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 3 cups water
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 egg white
10 to 12 large onions

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add water, beat smooth; add oil. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Slice the onion one-eighth inch thick. Separate into rings, reserve the small rings for other use. Soak in milk to cover one hour. Drain and dry, dip in batter and fry in deep oil about two minutes. Drain on soft paper.

Sweet Potatoes With Marshmallows.

5 sweet potatoes
Hot milk
Butter
Marshmallows
Seasoning

Cook the sweet potatoes until soft. Pare, press through the ricer, and add seasoning and hot milk, enough to make a soft consistency. Add a tablespoon of butter to each pint of potatoes and place in a greased baking dish. Cover with marshmallows and bake in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

Casserole of Chicken.

1 chicken (3 to 3½ pounds)
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped carrots
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup cream
¼ cup sherry

Cut chicken into pieces for serving. Melt butter, cook vegetables in it until they are yellow, not brown. Remove vegetables. Cook chicken in butter until all sides are golden brown. Add more butter if needed. Place chicken in casserole, add cream and wine and cover with vegetables. Cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until chicken is tender.

Savory Scalloped Oysters.

5 tablespoons butter
4 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup minced green pepper
½ cup ground ham
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Fabric Call Is for Rich Silk Crepe

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HERE'S important fabric news.

It's about the handsome silk crepes that have so definitely come into their own this season. Which is to say that leading designers are turning to the new crepes with high enthusiasm, for in rich suede-finished pure silk crepe they have found the material that will best serve as a background to "set off" by way of contrast the gorgeous touches of colorful and scintillating embroidery and applique which have so much to do with present-day costume design.

To illustrate, note the dress shown to the left in the picture. That very applique design which you see is achieved with gold metal cloth and against the black of the elegant sheer silk crepe which fashions the dress it silhouettes to perfection. This is an up-to-the-minute mode that reaches a new high in chic and charm. It's a dress that will be outstanding in any gathering of fashionables. Just the thing to wear under the wintry fur coat and later on it will prove your favorite midseason gown. Note the straight slim "lines" so necessary to smart appearance. The coral buttons on the metal trim add a fascinating dash of color. The gloves with embroidered cuffs are adorable. Be sure to take cognizance of the clover leaf trim. It's the latest.

When milady of fashion is next choice is almost sure to be handsome dark green. In most instances the hat repeats the identical green. The idea is carried out effectively in the costume to the right in the picture. This good looking daytime dress of moss green silk crepe has the new surprise crossed bodice. There is an artful use of narrow flat vertical tucks. According to the forecast for the resort season and for early spring we may expect to see pleats and tucks in profusion throughout forthcoming fashions. The sash that adds infinite grace to this dress, tying in front as it does, is enhanced with a colorful fringed arrangement formed of spaghetti cord made of self fabric. In this charming gown one sees how deftly designers are turning to self-fabric manipulation and from this point of view the new crepes are to be especially recommended.

One of the most vital themes on the current style program and one that has set the entire fashion world agog is the simple black foundation dress without which no well-planned wardrobe is complete these days. And here again the new plain weave silk crepes score a big triumph.

Another way of playing up to the foundation dress of black crepe is to lay in a stock of cunning jackets, especially bolero types. If you can sew even amateurly, fashion this season gives you your big moment in which to contrive all sorts of jacket fantasies, which slipped on over the foundation dress will in the twinkling of an eye tune your costume to the tempo of any occasion. A favorite method of procedure is to embroider the bolero all around its edges. Tremendously smart if the handwork is done in china-white beads or white wool or an applique of black or white patent leather or that which is a leading fashion, an applique of gold kid, for as assured the gold and black craze still persists. Sometimes it is a gay print gypsy sash that gives color.

Thrifty-wise women are even going so far as to have two foundation dresses of black crepe, one for practical day, the other for formal night. The latter is made floor length, the skirt being amazingly snug and subtle, the bodice sans sleeves and with low-back decollete, designed to take on versatile jackets with ease, one of which should be a bolero of glittering black sequins.

IT CAN HAPPEN AGAIN

The fact that the business recession was so unanimously unforeseen suggests that it can happen again without warning. The avowed purpose of the New Deal was to revive business and then stabilize it. In this particular all must agree that it has failed completely. The hazards of business enterprise have actually been increased. A prudent investor or business man cannot venture much when business is subject to more sudden and more violent changes than ever before.—Chicago Tribune.

President Roosevelt in his address to Congress declared that we intend to keep our treaties with foreign nations to the letter. But nothing was said about the Democratic platform.

If you save your pennies your dollars will be taken care of by the tax collector.

Speed of the Wheel

The top of a wheel rolling over the ground moves faster than the bottom of it, in relation to the ground. With respect to the center of the wheel, all parts rotate at the same rate. A simple demonstration can be made with a coin rolled a quarter of a revolution on paper. It will be found that the point at the top has rolled along the paper several times as far as the point at the bottom.

Great Banks of Floating Weed

The Sargasso sea—two great banks of floating weed in the Atlantic—is in area seven times greater than Germany. It has changed little since Columbus found it in 1492.

Cotton From Trees

Much of the cotton of South America is produced by woody trees, 10 and 15 feet high, which fruit for 10 years and more.

GUATEMALA INDIANS JUST LEARN OF U. S.

Primitive Tribe Adheres to Pre-Conquest Customs.

New York.—The 1,000 Indians in the Guatemalan village of Santiago Chimaltenango, living by a calendar which dates from the ancient Mayan civilization, have just learned of the existence of the United States, according to a report of a field study sponsored by the department of anthropology of Columbia university.

The report was submitted by Charles Wagley of Kansas City, Mo., a graduate student in the department, who returned recently from five months spent in this village, situated high in the Andean Cordillera. There he studied the economic and social customs of one of Central America's most primitive tribes.

Santiago Chimaltenango, a section of the department of Huehuetenango in northwestern Guatemala, is a three-day trip on horseback from the nearest town with passable roads. It is located on a shelf 8,000 feet high, cut into the side of a peak in the Cuchumatanes mountains, highest range in Central America.

Follow Old Customs. Touched very slightly by the inroads of "civilized" culture, the natives of this community lead a life which perpetuates the traditions of ancestors who lived before the Spanish conquest of Guatemala 400 years ago, Mr. Wagley reports. The 40 separate villages which comprise the department are autonomous units, although all come under the central government of the Guatemalan republic. With its own mayor and council, each village observes its peculiar customs and dresses according to its own centuries-old style. Until the arrival of Mr. Wagley last summer, no one in Santiago Chimaltenango had ever heard of the United States.

The Mayan calendar by which these Guatemalan Indians figure the passage of time is based on a year of 18 months of 20 days each. Since this system is shorter than the solar year, a five-day period in March separates the end of one year from the beginning of the next. These five days, which are considered very unlucky, are spent by the entire village in fast, abstinence, and prayer.

Corn is the exclusive crop at Santiago Chimaltenango, where the cornfields lie at 45-degree angles along the mountainside. With the crop surplus as barter, trading is carried on with other groups in the department.

The men in the tribes travel extensively in the course of their marketing, Mr. Wagley says, but the women have never seen an automobile, a silk stocking, or a modern building. They refuse to believe the tales of the men who have seen and heard radios in the department's capital, Huehuetenango.

Start Work Early. Education in Santiago Chimaltenango is a family affair, with the father responsible for the upbringing of the sons and the mother for the instruction of the daughters. At the age of eight or nine, boys start to work in the cornfields, learning to sow and harvest. Later they are initiated into the intricacies of marketing. At the same age, the Indian girls learn to weave, to carry firewood, and perform all the household tasks.

The ideal ages for marriage range from twelve to thirteen for girls and from thirteen to fourteen for boys. No romance is involved, Mr. Wagley points out, since the entire affair is arranged by the parents of the boy and girl.

The life of the entire population of Santiago Chimaltenango is characterized by striking simplicity, Mr. Wagley says. Black Mexican beans, fruit, and an occasional hog or chicken supplement the varieties of corn which make up the chief food staple.

"Through the study of these modern Indians, archaeologists may learn much about the mode of living in pre-conquest times," the report concludes. "Ethnologically, the Guatemalan area is absolutely untouched and affords great opportunity in the social study of an ancient people who have survived and are gaining strength in the Twentieth century."

Engineers Float Pipe to Lake Erie Placement

Cleveland, Ohio.—Engineers, faced with the problem of laying more than 500 yards of heavy steel pipe in Lake Erie, accomplished their task by floating the pipe to its resting place.

Sections of the pipe were coupled together in 120-foot lengths. Watertight couplings were used and each end was sealed in an airtight cap. Then floating cranes dragged the pipe lengths over the water.

The caps on the sections were removed and the pipe sank into the trench dug for it. Estimated cost of the job, handled by the municipal engineering department, was $15,000.

OCEAN AIR LINERS NEED WEATHER MAPS

Three-Dimension Chart Required for Safe Travel.

London, England.—A three-dimensional map, probably in the form of a cube, like a child's building block, is one of the minor problems technicians must solve before regular transatlantic flights may be performed smoothly.

Experimental survey flights by Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways during the last summer demonstrated the paramount importance of accurate weather reports and forecasts to the pilots of the oversea aircraft. The value of radio, of course, is beyond computation in transmitting weather information after the flight has begun.

Maps Now Flat Charts. But since the over-water crossing takes only about half a day, the pilots lean heavily on the weather maps handed them at the takeoff. And these maps, at present, must express on a flat chart of Mercator's Projection weather tendencies in three dimensions. The commander must imagine he is looking at a cross-section of the air and interpret the symbols on the chart accordingly.

Experts are working on a plan whereby in future pilots will be given a large cube on which all weather data is described. Thus altitude will be shown as well as latitude and longitude when movements of air currents and temperatures are shown.

Experimental flights to date have led to these conclusions: Atlantic weather has proved stable; that is, it behaves according to forecast. Therefore the 24-hour forecast may be depended upon.

Radio Aids Invaluable. Radio aids to navigation functioned perfectly. Pilots of both air lines received regular reports and transmitted their positions on 30-minute clockwork intervals.

Co-operation of ships on the Atlantic proved a great aid and comfort. By taking bearings from any two ships, it was simple for the pilot to double-check his position.

The bubble sextant, developed especially for air use, was equally efficient for stellar observation.

An "inquest" into the experiences of the survey commanders will be held, data will be co-ordinated, and schedules worked out which will provide economical as well as safe crossings by air, when mail and, later, passengers will be carried.

Ohio May Become Desert Again in Million Years

Kent, Ohio.—Ohio, once a desert, again may become a dry, barren land after long geological ages, believes Dr. David Olsen, head of the geography department of Kent State university.

"Geologists know that Ohio and parts of Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York had a desert climate more than a hundred million years ago," explained Dr. Olsen. "It is known that salt deposits found in these states were formed in salty lakes or lagoons of a sea coast in desert areas."

Geological study shows that the Appalachian highlands have been pushed up several thousand feet or more and then they have been worn down. This has happened many times in the past.

"If the Appalachians and highlands in Tennessee and Arkansas should rise to an elevation greater by a mile or so than they are today, we would have adequate cause for desert conditions in Ohio, since our rain ultimately must come from the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic ocean," Dr. Olsen said.

Pere Marquette Picture Crowns 200 Year Search

Milwaukee, Wis.—A 200-year search for a portrait of Pere Jacques Marquette, extending through France, Canada, and the United States, has been rewarded, in the opinion of authorities at Marquette university here.

A painting of the portrait accepted as an authentic one of the famous missionary and explorer has been made by John A. Nielson, Milwaukee artist. It will be presented to the university of an alumni group in connection with the celebration of the tercentenary of Father Marquette's birth this month.

In 1900 an artist named McNab retrieved a panel from a scrap heap. After removing dirt and varnish he found beneath an excellent portrait inscribed with the words: "Marquette de la confrerie de Jesus," and signed, "R. Roos, 1669." Experts declared it is the true likeness of Marquette and the original was used by Nielson in making his portrait.

High School Boys Take Home Economics Course

St. Louis.—Making beds, the best use of leisure time, what to do before the doctor comes, and how to run a household on a budget are some of the topics in a home economics course open to St. Louis high school boys.

The course has been introduced into the curriculum with a view of broadening the scope of high school training in line with modern educational trends. The greatest problem is the prejudice with which boys regard home economics.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Efficient though it may be, the New York police department in its efforts to solve crimes and bring criminals to justice, at times runs into what seems to be a blank wall. For instance, there was the slaying of Joseph Bowne Elwell, nationally known bridge expert, who was found shot to death in his West Seventieth street apartment. That was away back in 1920, yet the crime hasn't been solved. The police found numerous clues but all apparently led nowhere. For years they worked on the case and, theoretically at least, are still working on it. One man confessed but it was soon shown he didn't do it. Then, three years later, came the strangling of Dot King, the "Broadway butterfly." The reputation of a prominent and wealthy man was blackened a bit by the case but her slayer, as well as whoever killed Louise Lawson a little later, is still at large. So is the slayer or slayers of Arnold Rothstein, big time gambler and friend of politicians, who was shot to death in a mid-town hotel in November, 1928.

In more recent times, there was the slaying of the "Pumpkinnick King," who was killed last November. His name was Morris Erde and as a baker he made a fortune which became so depleted by the depression that a bakery on Grand street was his only business. He lived on that same street, Sunday morning, he started for his place of business and a few days later his body was found in the courtyard of the co-operative apartment where he lived. One arrest was made but the suspect was exonerated. Then there was "Blind Joe" who was killed last May. He ran a little radio establishment on Avenue A on the lower East Side and lived in one room behind his place of business. He was found with his head crushed in by a hammer. There was no sign of a struggle and nothing had been stolen. The police held it to be a revenge slaying. No arrests have been made.

The slaying of Justice John Francis O'Neill, of the Municipal court, which occurred last April, was spectacular. It occurred right on Sixth avenue at Twelfth street. Witnesses saw a man, whom they described as stocky and wearing a tan polo coat, come up behind the judge, draw a long knife and stab him twice in the back. Justice O'Neill staggered and his assailant ran along Twelfth street toward Fifth avenue and disappeared. The judge managed to reach his home and then St. Vincent's hospital, where he died a few days later. The case was on newspaper front pages for days. The police labored diligently. But the man in the polo coat is still enjoying his liberty.

Justice Joseph Force Carter's disappearance, which took place seven years ago, cannot be put in the crime category. But it is an example of how even the most exhaustive search may come to nothing. A sensation followed the vanishing of the judge. His description was sent everywhere. Detectives over the world ran out various leads. A large man well known and easily recognized wherever he might go, the Crater case is still open on the police books. He smiled and waved his hand to friends on Forty-fifth street. Then he stepped into a taxi-cab. Even the driver of that cab hasn't been found.

Disappearances are by no means uncommon in New York. They average 70 a day. But 98 per cent of those who disappear are found. At that, there is an average of 500 each year who vanish completely so far as friends, relatives and police are concerned. When a person is reported missing, the missing persons bureau continues to keep the case open so long as there remains the slightest hope of finding him or her. © Bell Syndicate, WNU Service.

Fires in Schools Exceed Five Daily

Kansas City Mo.—School buildings catch fire at the rate of more than five a day, Dr. David J. Price, chief soil chemist of the Department of Agriculture, told the National Safety Congress convention here.

Most fires start in the basement, said Price, who investigated the New London, Texas, explosion of last spring which took more than 30 lives. Annually school fires cause $5,000,000 loss, and in recent years 300 lives have been lost less in 30 outstanding disasters.

You Must Have a Glamorous Blouse

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE is a disposition among designers this season to create "above-the-table" effects, as they please to term it, and this is where the blouse of gleaming lame weave plays a stellar role. Your jacket or caped suit or your fur coat may be as conservative as you may insist but when it comes to the blouse underneath witness a blaze of glory when it is revealed. For a fact, the smartest dress-up blouses are just like that, this season.

What's more, though it's hard to believe, notwithstanding its unmistakable-luxury appeal, when it comes right down to figuring it out a blouse of gorgeous sparkling metal cloth is a perfectly safe and sane adventure in economy. How so? Well, it dresses you up at a moment's notice and accommodates itself under a friendly jacket when you do not want to be too dressed up. And if you are in the "make your own" class, all that's needed is a yard or so of handsome fabric, a simple pattern and a determination to do and dare in order to acquire as elegant a blouse as dreams may picture.

Not that the ready made blouse is prohibitive in price, on the contrary it's surprising what lovely models are to be had these days at comparatively little cost. For formal wear silk lame is favored not only for its smartness but because the silk core reduces tarnishing hazards. As to the newer styling the blouses that look festive with much glamour and glitter feature the same corseted waist, high bust line, draped bodice and close fitting neck seen in the smartest dresses.

Many silk blouses completing formal afternoon suits show sleeve interest concentrated on top. Pin tucking, shirring, cutout or contrasting encrustations of mat on brilliant or vice versa are used as trimming for otherwise simple blouses.

To the right in the picture we show a turquoise silk lame blouse with an artfully gathered bodice and flange points at the neck which makes it a 1937 model. This attractive style is also adapted to large sizes in which the corselet effect is modified. The points of the collar may be turned down for the shorter neck.

The blouse to the left is the last word in modish detail. Firstly, it plays up glitter and glamour to a finish. Secondly, it carries the message of stripes, and the matter of stripes in elegant fabrics, especially in luxurious lames, is very important this season. In this instance the material is black and silver lame. Then too this blouse proclaims the very advance and widely heralded high surplice model which is fashioned along the new molded line. And please to take note of the cunning hat and whimsical veil. Yes indeed, this ensemble is a perfect criterion of what to wear when you go stepping during the mid-winter social whirl.

If not a blouse of glittering lame then choose a shirtmaker cocktail dress of silver weave like the one pictured in the center background. This type is a perennial favorite, and somehow they look prettier than ever this season. See the clever little pocket with the decorative monogram embroidered in green silk. No lame shirtmaker dress can afford to be without a cunning pocket like this, to our way of thinking. And the adorable hat with its devastating veil done with the usual Lilly Dache artistry, what more could a debutante desire?

Cottage Cheese Dishes

Not only is cottage cheese an inexpensive food, but it is a versatile one, lending itself especially well to salads and desserts. One of the best liked cottage cheese salads is stuffed prune salad. Remove the prune pits and stuff the prunes with the cheese. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. Dates or figs may be substituted for the prunes.

An unusual but wholesome dessert is cottage cheese custard. It can be made in the morning and kept in the refrigerator for the evening meal. The ingredients needed include: three well-beaten eggs, one-third cup sugar, one and a half cups cottage cheese (strained), one and a half cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon vanilla.

Combine the ingredients in the order given. Turn the mixture into buttered custard cups, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for from one and a quarter to one and one-half hours. The recipe fills about seven custard cups. When cool, place in refrigerator. Serve the custard cold.

Household Hints

For the best results when mopping linoleum-covered floors or varnished wooden floors, go easy on the water but don't spare the soap suds.

Peroxide of hydrogen will remove perfume stains from linen dresser scarfs.

Parsley washed with hot water keeps its flavor better and is easier to chop.

For delicious bacon waffles, lay a thin slice of bacon on top of the batter in each section of the waffle iron.

CURL COIFFURE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

"Fashions may change, pompadours may give way to bobs for a time, but they come back again," explained Charles Dana Gibson in discussing his famed Gibson Girl of the 1890s on his recent birthday. And now New York and Paris arbiters of fashion confess that the new styles for Palm Beach and Southern wear have been to a great extent inspired by the Gibson Girl. The "1937 Gibson Girl" shown here glories in a modern pompadour curl coiffure which Twentieth-century science has made it possible for her to arrange herself with one of the new automatic bob pin curlers. This beauty gadget shoots curls into the hair in almost the twinkling of an eye. It works so easily and simply the curls can even be done after slipping on this striking two-piece flame-colored chiffon evening gown made with an ingeniously sleeved capelet to slip on after dancing. The gown is made tight fitting along corseted lines, draped over the bosom with a low front and back.

Ignore Their Women
Native men on Atchin Island, New Hebrides, will not eat with women. Even the married men live apart from their wives, in barracks, and prepare their own meals.

Gave Name to Linoleum
The name linoleum was given by an Englishman, Frederick Walton, to an invention of his own about 1860, although a similar floor covering had been made before that time.

WILMOT FAIR PLANS MORE EXHIBITS FOR '38

Directors Discuss Plans at Business Meeting Held Friday

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Kenosha County Fair association, held Friday night at the U. F. H. School in Wilmot, members of the board heard reports from officers and considered several problems relative to the conduct of the 1938 exhibit program.

The business session opened with a report on the recently conducted Milwaukee meeting of the state session of County Fair associations. The initial portion of the report on the state meeting was presented by County Agent E. V. Ryall, secretary of the Kenosha County Association.

M. M. Schnurr, Wilmot, president of the fair association, and John Van Lier, Brighton, also reported on the state meeting and described their efforts to secure an expansion of the classification for the local fair to permit the inclusion of open divisions in the premium list.

Plan Wider Entries
In line with the pleas of officers at the state meeting, members of the board of directors discussed plans for the inclusion of several open divisions for this year's fair and for an expansion of the entire entry list. A committee consisting of Robert Pringle, Bristol; Miss Grace Carey, Wilmot; Mrs. John Voelker, Brighton; John Van Lier, Brighton, and County Agent E. V. Ryall was named to draft plans for the inclusion of such open divisions in the 1938 Kenosha County fair program.

The members of the board of directors also voted a small admission charge for the coming fair and decided to extend the time allowed for exhibits to three days and three nights of display.

As a feature of the show next fall, members of the board of directors acted favorably on a motion by Miss Grace Carey and voted to conduct an evening horse show as a major event in the 1938 August show.

Committee Named
With the decision to make a small admission charge a committee was appointed to consider the problems of exhibitors' tickets, stall rent, season tickets and entry fees. The members of this committee are C. L. Eggert, county superintendent of schools; Nem Gilmore, Bristol, and Ben Kasin, Wheatland.

John Van Lier and Al Lois, Bas-setts, were named as a committee of two to arrange for concessions at the county fair. The committee will have full power to book concessions and will be empowered to set dates for the fair.

The fair directors also voted to conduct a Kenosha County Pioneer Family contest as another feature of the annual program.

Test Shows Dual Tires Best for Marsh Ground

Madison, Wis.—Farm tractors, like most people, find advantage in being rubber shod when traveling over marsh ground.

Tests conducted on the University of Wisconsin marsh at Madison by F. W. Duffee, agricultural engineer, revealed that a farm tractor slipped less, picked up less dirt, and sunk into the marshy ground less when equipped with dual rubber wheels than when steel wheels were used.

Single rubber wheels were not found satisfactory, however, as there was excessive slipping in the rear wheels and they sank into the loose soil about the full diameter of the tire. The performance of the dual tire equipment Duffee found very satisfactory in every respect, as the tractor steered much easier when equipped with rubber in front than when fitted with wide steel wheels, and the dual tires in the rear kept the tractor on the surface fully as well as did the wide steel wheels and with very little slippage.

No attempt was made to accurately determine what difference, if any, there would be in fuel consumption. Duffee observed, however, that the tractor with dual wheels would just barely pull a 10-foot harrow disc in high gear while it would not pull the harrow in high gear when equipped with steel wheels.

Nicknames of Criminals Kept on File by G-Men

Washington.—As a needed adjunct to its fingerprint records of gangsters, kidnapers, bank robbers and other criminals, the federal bureau of investigation has set up a moniker or nickname file, it was recently revealed by Director J. Edgar Hoover. This is based on a theory, whose validity is now accepted, that a man's nickname is seldom changed. Though a criminal may masquerade under a dozen aliases, almost invariably, if he has a nickname, he will continue to be known by that name by his men and women associates in the underworld.

Nicknames often are based on physical appearance, mental attitudes or personal idiosyncracies and mannerisms. Hence the nickname may often provide a valuable clue to officers of the law in their search for missing criminals.

Youth Plows the Fields

Washington.—Farm laborers are young compared with other occupational groups, according to a recent survey in 11 states by the Department of Agriculture. More than one-third of the farm laborers included in the survey were between twenty and twenty-nine years old and two-thirds were under forty.

Find Lost Ruby Ring in Gizzard of Hen

Clinton, Ill.—The lost ruby engagement ring of Mrs. Earl Crangle has been found. Some time ago she found the ring, which had been lost for some time, but the set was missing. While dressing a hen she found the ruby in the fowl's gizzard.

Call of the Quail
Sylvester D. Judd in "The Bob-white and Other Quails of the United States," says that the call "bob-white" is the nuptial call; the male uses many other calls, imitating other birds and animals. This call is not generally used after the breeding season. The answer of the female is a single clear whistle.

To Reduce Warping of Wood
The shrinking and swelling of wood caused by water absorption can be greatly reduced by heating it in various gaseous atmospheres to temperatures approaching those of decomposition, according to the American Chemical society.

Grant High School News

By Raoul George

Grant high school's hopes of remaining in the upper circles of the Northwest conference were dimmed Friday night when Warren's Blue Devils, paced by Zimmerman, defeated Walt Raisinske's Red and White Raiders, 24-17, on hostile grounds. Grant's second stringers whipped Kelton's crew, 17-15, to partly defray the deficiency accumulated by the loss of her first team.

James Mielke of Grant and Zimmerman of Warren accounted for seven points each to lead their teams. Mielke's total centered around two field goals and three free throws, while Zimmerman garnered three baskets and one gratis shot.

Mielke's performance against Warren wasn't of the field day variety, but the elongated youth continues to hold his status as Grant's biggest offensive weapon of the campaign. In seven tilts to date, including the unofficial tussle against Ela, Mielke has sunk 21 field goals and ten free shots for 52 points. Captain James Howard trails with 42 points. Ed Burtleigh, last year's most deadly scorer in this vicinity, is third in scoring.

Gene Koch, the surprising siege gun of the lightweights, tops the second stringers with 51 points, this total consisting of 21 baskets and nine gratis tosses.

Undefeated Ela tops the Northwest conference with a record of five wins. Grant's two wins and two losses places her at the .500 mark. The Bulldog lightweights have been bombing enemy ports with great effectiveness. To date, Coach Raisinske's younger charges have amassed three wins and one loss to rank fourth in the conference standings.

Fern Wait, prominent senior student whose scholastic standing is straight "A," was awarded the Good Citizenship Award, a presentation of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in a poll conducted among the students Monday afternoon. She received eighty-six votes out of a possible 175. The award is based on dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

In winning the honor, she thus becomes eligible for a trip to Washington, D. C. Sometime in the immediate future the names of the high school award winners in Illinois will be placed in a barrel. A name will be drawn and the lucky girl is entitled to a trip to the nation's capital.

Allendale's invasion of the Silver Skates Derby in Chicago proved disastrous. All representatives of the Lake Villa boys' school were beaten in preliminary heats. Insufficient practice sessions and too much snow on Cedar Lake were responsible for their poor showing, Coach M. A. Salzgeber said.

The debate squad is practicing for its first meet of the campaign, to be held in early February. The complete schedule of opponents will be published in this column in an early issue.

The second chapter of Mr. Clyde C. Hill's English class for adults will be written next Friday evening, January 21, at the high school.

Those desiring to learn the fundamentals of English, platform deportment, etc. should enroll without delay this Friday. A class of eleven reported last week, but a larger attendance is assured this Friday according to present reports.

When Mr. Orr failed to attend school Thursday it was the first time in his ten year teaching career that illness caused his absence. A severe chest cold was responsible, Mr. Orr said.

Felt, a Cloth

Felt is a cloth made of wool, hair, or fur, either singly or mixed, compacted by moistening, heating, rolling, and pressing. Some felts are woven, but true felt is made by compression only. Wool possesses the highest felting properties, and the fur or hair of the ox, goat, hare, rabbit, or beaver are readily felted. The principal hat felts are made of rabbit (known in the trade as "coney"), beaver, etc., says London Answers Magazine. Cow-hair is mainly used in making felted materials for covering roofs. The origin of this process of manufacture is not clear, as felting is probably older than weaving. Its discovery is sometimes ascribed to Oriental shepherds.

Early Advice on Oxen

Twenty-seven centuries ago, the Greek poet Hesiod, in his "Works and Days," the oldest-known work upon agriculture, gave this advice as to the oxen on the farm: "For draught and yoking together, nine-year-old oxen are best, because, being past the mischievous and frolicsome age, they are not likely to break the pole and leave the plowing in the middle."

First American Tourists

The first tourists to leave America and travel about Europe were considered the most intelligent and progressive men of their age, and included Emerson, Poe, Fenimore, Cooper, Washington Irving, Bayard Taylor, Longfellow, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Horace Greeley.

FARM TOPICS

HORSES VALUABLE; GOOD CARE NEEDED

Life of Animals Should Be Much Longer.

By Philip Henderson of the New York State College of Agriculture—WNU Service.

A horse is more valuable today, in terms of other commodities, than at any time in the past 20 years. The price of horses rose enough from 1925 to 1937 to double their value in terms of all other commodities.

Each year farmers lose horses that proper care and management would save—horses with many useful years of work ahead. A study in Chenango and Ontario counties in 1936 by a representative of Cornell showed that 428 horses died during the past five years on 432 farms, or nearly one to a farm. These died at the average age of 16 years. Average age of 1,382 horses on these farms in 1936 was 13 years.

Old age caused fully one-third of the deaths among the horses, according to the investigator. Average age of horses that died of old age was 23 years.

Old age causes more than twice as many deaths as any other single thing. Accidents and digestive troubles are next; each was responsible for 14 per cent of the 428 deaths. All three causes were responsible for two-thirds of all the deaths on these farms during the past five years.

Other reasons why farm horses die are: paralysis, heaves, lockjaw, heat, food poisoning, azoturia, lightning, and pneumonia. Each has a minor part, along with other miscellaneous causes.

No method is offered to keep horses from growing old; but old age, cited as the main cause of death, ranges from 14 to 37 years. Is there that much variation among the horses themselves, or could care and management influence length-of-life? He says the answer is given by experienced farmers and others who know horses and who know how to prolong the useful life of "man's most faithful servant."

Seven Types of Heads Found Among the Hens

The seven types of heads of layers, according to a poultry specialist at the Missouri state college, are:

First, rugged refined—capable of producing 250 to 300 eggs per year. This head shows high quality, the face is of medium length and depth and the skin is of fine texture and lean appearance.

Second, refined head—capable of producing 200 to 250 eggs. This head is similar to the rugged refined type but is lacking in strength.

Third, overly refined—capable of producing 150 to 200 eggs. This bird is lacking in strength.

Fourth, crow-headed—capable of producing 150 to 200 eggs. This head shows refinement but also considerable length. It lacks ruggedness so necessary for high production.

Fifth, coarse—capable of producing 50 to 150 eggs. This head shows wrinkles, over-hanging brows and coarseness throughout.

Sixth, phlegmatic—capable of producing 25 to 150 eggs. The best way of describing this head is to say that it is lacking in character.

Seventh, masculine—capable of producing 0 to 50 eggs. In this case the hen grows an excessively large comb and takes on the appearance of the male. It is due to growths or disturbances in the ovary.

Paving Feedlots

Feedlots can be paved by the regular farm help, E. T. Robbins, live stock extension specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, points out. A brick pavement 35 by 70 feet was laid in 1929 at a minimum of expense. Bricks of common size were laid flat on the black dirt of a level prairie farm. A rim of concrete extends around the outside. The bricks are not tight but they have stayed in place and the floor has kept smooth.

Poultry Grades Changed

Two important changes of interest to poultrymen were made in poultry plans at a recent annual poultry improvement conference in Chicago. The first was the establishment of a new chick grade, known as U. S. Verified, the intermediate grade between U. S. Approved and U. S. Certified. The second was a ruling requiring hatcheries and dealers to submit copies of proposed advertising literature to the official state agency before they are sent out.

Strawstack Tons Measured

There are differences of opinion over the method of estimating, with-in reason, the number of tons in a strawstack. Here is one good way to do it: multiply the overthrow (the distance from the ground on one side over the top of the stack to the ground on the other side) by the length, by the width (all in feet); multiply by 3, divide by 10 and then divide by 500 to 600, depending upon the length of time the hay has been in the stack.

LEGIONNAIRE Ray Raidy's Uncle

Killed in Rockford

The firing squad is acting as a committee arranging for the February 19th Dinner Dance at Pasadena Gardens and tickets are now on sale at Webb's Racket Store, Phillips Centrella Store and Otto S. Klass's clothing store. This is going to be the biggest social event of the year if advance ticket sale is any indication of the crowd that will be there.

Arrangements are being made by Dr. A. P. Bratrude for Child Welfare Meeting for the last week in January.

Chlorine gas chokes its victims in a terrible slow suffocation. Phosgene, often used with it, floods the lungs with blood. In their agony, dying Canadian soldiers at Vimy Ridge ripped their throats open with their hands to get useless air.

Badly shell-shocked soldiers clawed their mouths ceaselessly. It was a common, dreadful action.

The education committee of the American Legion recommends the following five major legislative plans:

1. Introduce or support legislation increasing the state distributive fund to a minimum of $30,000,000.
2. Support proposed legislation by which the state will pay to the various school districts the $7,000,000 arrearages in the regular distributive fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1935.
3. Introduce legislation for larger units of school administration and taxation with a board for each unit and appointive instead of elective officials.

4. Introduce and support proposed legislation for higher qualifications for Illinois teachers and the extension of the tenure provision of the Otis Law to all school districts of Illinois.
5. Necessary legislation increasing the present legal minimum school term.

This program should be supported by all citizens as well as Legionnaires.

Outside Covering of a Tree

The outside covering of a twenty-year-old tree is the same as that which included it as a one-year-old sapling. The cambium layer adds annual growths on the inner side while the outer bark stretches and splits to accommodate the increasing girth.

William F. Murphy, uncle of Raymond Raidy of Antioch, was Rockford's first auto victim in the new year. He was fatally injured on Jan. 4 when the car he was driving skidded on the ice and struck a tree.

Murphy was formerly a state license inspector, and was commander-elect of the United Spanish War veterans of Rockford. He was born on a farm near Marengo 60 years ago. He had lived in Rockford since he was two years old.

The Cross-Word Puzzle

Puzzles similar to the cross-word puzzles were known to the ancients. What is believed by some authorities to be the oldest cross-word puzzle was made by a Cretan about 2,000 years ago, a copy of which lies in the archeological museum at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md. The puzzle is called the Phaestus disk, and was found on the island of Crete by an expedition many years ago. The first genuine cross-word puzzle of the modern type was composed by Arthur Winn and appeared in a supplement of the Sunday New York World on December 21, 1913.

Former Home of Poet Tennyson

Farringford was the former Isle of Wight home of Alfred Lord Tennyson. The poet moved there in 1858 and made it his home for many years. Tennyson had little of the privacy he sought there. The poet once apologized to a departing visitor for not accompanying him beyond a little postern that opened into a lane, because the last time he had gone beyond it he had been "pursued in full cry along the road by two fat women and sixteen children."

To Fool the Fairies

Because fairies are supposed to run away with male children, superstitious parents along the Conemara coast of Ireland dress their boys in red flannel petticoats so the fairies will think they are girls and not molest them.

The Bayeux Tapestry

The Bayeux tapestry, preserved in the public library of Bayeux, France, contains 1,512 figures in seventy-two scenes representing the invasion and conquest of England by William the Conqueror.

Notice to Parents

If your boy has a rifle, airgun, or other firearm, see that it is used in a safe area. It is strictly against the law to shoot firearms inside the village limits. Future violators will be arrested and prosecuted. Lets play safe.
